

JOHN P. BETZ FOUND DEAD SITTING ON PORCH OF HIS HOME

Deceased Was Prominently Identified With Democratic Politics in County

KEYSTONE DAIRY HEAD

Organized Milk Dealers Into Company Here Several Years Ago

John P. Betz, Sr., long a prominent resident of Bristol, was found dead sitting on the porch of his home at 825 Radcliffe street, shortly after noon today.

Mr. Betz had not been in the best of health for the past two years and 18 months ago retired from active business. Since that time he had lived more or less a retired life.

It was first discovered that life was extinct from the body of Mr. Betz by Dr. Charles S. Abbott, a neighbor, who often stopped at the porch to converse with the deceased.

Dr. Abbott was passing the Betz home and was attracted by those who had gathered being attracted by a small pet dog of Mr. Betz who refused to permit anyone to approach the porch. Dr. Abbott was friendly with the dog and no objection was made by the canine to his approach.

It was Mr. Betz's custom to spend most of his time on the front porch of his home, and it was there that he was found today by passers-by who noticed that he did not respond when spoken to. None of the Betz family were home at the time.

The deceased had been prominently identified with Democratic politics in Bristol and Bucks County for a number of years. He was for many years a Democratic leader in the lower section of the county. He had been a candidate for various county and borough offices on the Democratic ticket, and at one time ran for Burgess of Bristol on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Betz for many years ran a retail milk delivery route in the borough, and was one of the organizers of the Keystone Dairy Company. He was elected president of this organization, which office he held until about 18 months ago, when he resigned because of ill health.

In 1910 he organized the Peoples Ice Company and was president of it until the company was sold to Robert Clark.

During his younger life Mr. Betz took an active interest in fraternal organizations and was prominently identified with the Independent Order of Red Men.

His wife, four daughters and one son survive.

ANDALUSIA

Several days are being spent by Mrs. E. T. Hall and daughter, Miss Lillian Hall, of Bristol Pike, in Bethlehem.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean, and Lawrence Herron and son, of Locust avenue, motored to Conowingo Dam, on Sunday. Enroute they visited relatives of Mrs. Dean in Newark, Delaware.

Wilbur McDonald, of Philadelphia, is visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean, of Locust avenue, for two weeks.

Westmont, N. J., passed the week-end with Mrs. E. States, of Bristol Pike.

A pie and cake sale will be held at the residence of Mrs. Arthur States, Bristol Pike, on Saturday afternoon between the hours of two and five. This will be for the benefit of the Eastern Star Chapter, of Bristol. Pies and cakes will be sold.

Work on the new school building on Poquessing avenue is progressing nicely. The brick has been laid to the top of the first story, and workmen are kept busy rushing the structure to completion.

Members attending will take box lunches, and coffee will be served. No business session will be held.

LARGE BARN DESTROYED; LOSS PUT AT $18,000

Property Owned by Rev. John Wilson, Philadelphia Clergyman

BLAME LACK OF WATER

FOUNTAINVILLE, Aug. 16.—Fire believed to have been caused by sparks from an exhaust pipe on a piece of machinery used in baling yesterday destroyed a large barn on the farm of Rev. John Wilson, a Philadelphia clergyman, located off the Dublin pike in New Britain township. The loss is estimated at close to $18,000.

Hampered by the lack of a water supply firemen from Dublin and Doylestown had to pump water from a creek a quarter of a mile away and considerable time was lost in making the hook-up because of the distance from the scene of the fire.

The barn was one of the largest in this section of Bucks county and was located on one of the finest farms in the county. Rev. Wilson's summer home a short distance from the barn was not threatened, but the tenant house, a fine Colonial dwelling of stone, occupied by the farmer, Charles Ensweller, was threatened by the sparks from the burning barn. The contents of the tenant house were moved out on the lawn. Firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the tenant house.

The barn had just been filled with many tons of hay and straw, much of which was baled. When the fire broke out it took less than ten minutes for the main section of the barn, part of which was frame and the other stone, to go up in one large blaze. The flames quickly spread to a wing of the barn.

By the time the water line was hooked up, firemen had time to prevent the chicken house from being destroyed. Two tractors in the barn were destroyed but other farm machinery, horses and cattle were removed.

The owner of the farm was not at his summer home at the time. He had been there yesterday morning and had returned to Philadelphia with his wife, Mrs. Emily D. Wilson.

Neighboring farmers formed a safety bucket brigade, carrying water from the springhouse, but little could be accomplished in this manner because of the intense heat that prevented them from getting close enough to the flames. The roof of the tenant house on several occasions started to smoke when sparks and embers were carried by the wind, but a chemical crew prevented a general outbreak of flames.

RIDGE ROAD IMPROVEMENT ANNOUNCED BY S. H. D.

Bucks County Will Receive $353,111 Allocation for The Improvement of Important Cross Link That Will Benefit Many Townships

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 16.—Bucks county will receive $353,111.01 as a result of the Wheeler-Flynn allocation for the building of new highways in the county, the most important of which is the establishment of an improved cross link, the Ridge Road, connecting the Lackawanna Trail near the Harrow and the Bethlehem pike and other routes in northern and eastern Montgomery county.

Announcement was made today of the new road building plan by James Lyall Stuart, secretary of highways. The department will spend more than $550,000 on highway projects to pave dirt roads, and Bucks county will receive the major portion of this amount.

Four miles of road will be built in Montgomery county at a cost of $200,000, including the section of highway that extends through Prospectville and known as the Limekiln Pike. This road parallels the Harrow pike.

Preference expressed by the Bucks County commissioners, as approved by Secretary Stuart and Governor John S. Fisher, specified the improvement of the gap from Almont to Naceville and also the gap from Elephant to Haycock Run, on traffic route No. 563, known as the Ridge Road.

TEN-DAY AIR JAMBOREE WILL DRAW BEST PILOTS

Rapid-Fire and Bewildering Succession of Aviation Activities Are Planned

IS TERMED 'AIR CLASSIC'

By Earl A. Ely
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—A ten-day jamboree, during which a rapid-fire and bewildering succession of aviation activities will be flashed across Cleveland's skyline, will begin here August 24 with the opening of the annual National Air Races and Aeronautical Exposition.

Termed the "Air Classic of the Century," the 1929 races and exposition will bring to Cleveland 25 years' worth of aeronautical progress that have marked the baby industry of transportation since the first motored airplane flight in 1903 on the sandy shores of Kitty Hawk, N. C.

It will throw into competition some of the nation's foremost air heroes, testing their skill and daring. Planes, piloted by the pick of the country's military and commercial flyers, will strain their motors in rivalry. American eagles—Uncle Sam's crack military skyfighters—will scream their way overhead in formation exhibitions.

BUCKS POTATO GROWERS VISITED FOUR FIELDS

Bucks Co. Group of Approximately 175 Persons Told of Uniform Marketing

PROPER USE OF WEEDER

SPINNERSTOWN, Aug. 16.—Four potato fields in this vicinity were visited by the Bucks County Potato Growers' Association. The group numbered about 175 persons. However, the visits to the fields were cut short because of the inclemency of the weather.

The farms were visited in the morning and following this the members enjoyed a picnic lunch in the Great Swamp Grange hall. This was followed by a meeting which was addressed by local potato growers, who spoke on questions pertaining to the growing of potatoes.

Oscar Rosenberger, of this place, presented the first discussion of the afternoon, when he spoke on plowing for potatoes. Mr. Rosenberger said he practices a two-year rotation with potatoes followed by sweet clover. The sweet clover crop is plowed the following spring. Several other growers said they put into use a longer rotation and practice the system of fall and spring plowing.

Planting was the topic presented by Harvey H. Baum, Hilltown township. Mr. Baum stated that he prefers second size seed. He has observed that he gets a better stand, especially during a wet spring. In planting Mr. Baum does not practice ridging the potatoes. He plants the seed from 3 1/2 to 4 inches in depth and covers the seed from an inch to an inch and a half. The remainder of the soil is put over the potatoes with the weeder.

The subject of the use of the weeder was presented by Walter S. Bishop, Fountainville, who said the weeder is used to kill weeds, form a dust mulch and to make the potatoes form their roots deeper in the soil. He stated that the weeder should be used during the heat of the day when the potato vines are the toughest.

Mr. Bishop stated that a large percentage of the potato growers stop using the weeder too soon.

Organizing the picking crew was discussed by Henry Bauman, Milford Square. In picking the potatoes Mr. Bauman stakes off the entire field and has each picker pick from one stake to the next. This method gives each picker the same amount of territory to be covered.

A. L. Hacker, the Lehigh county agent, emphasized some of the points brought out by the growers. He stated that year in and year out moisture is the controlling factor in the growing of potatoes. The drought this summer was cited as an excellent example of what the lack of moisture will do to reduce the prospective yield.

CATSKILL MTS. OFFER MUCH TO MOTORISTS NOW

Delightful Region of Rip Van Winkle Attracts Many

ARE HISTORIC VILLAGES

Storm King Highway is The Source of Interest to All Travelling Route

One of the most attractive week-end motor trips in the eastern section of the country is a journey through the famous Catskill Mountains. Here the state of New York has set aside a vast resort region of 576,120 acres containing sections of unusual charm and scenic beauty and along every foot of the way an ever changing landscape is presented to the travelers.

Through this delightful region the Keystone Automobile Club has mapped a tour leading through the scenes of Rip Van Winkle's adventures, while further north in the Cherry Valley section may be visited Cooperstown, the scenes of many of Cooper's Leatherstocking Tales.

"While the tour has been planned as a week-end outing, the section through which the journey leads contains ample accommodations for stop overs in all the larger towns and the travelers may easily extend the trip into a pleasant vacation jaunt if desired," says Russell B. Carty, representative of the club.

From Bristol pass through Langhorne, Newtown, Buckingham to Doylestown. From there the tour leads north over national route 611 through Easton and the Delaware Water Gap section to East Stroudsburg. Here a right turn into national route 209 carries the tourists along the banks of the Delaware River through Milford to Port Jervis, N. Y. Northward over national route 6N the journey winds through Wurtsboro to Kingston on the banks of the Hudson. Here a left turn into the famous Storm King Highway, national route 9W, leads through Saugerties to Catskill.

Catskill, a picturesque and historic old village stands at the mouth of the Catskill creek and is the gateway to the legend laden lands where Rip Van Winkle is reputed to have taken his twenty year sleep. Two fine concrete roads lead into the heart of this mountain country and from here side trips into the famous Catskill Park lead to Kaaterskill Canyon, 3,000 feet deep; Platterkill Gorge, a three mile cut in the mountain and Orchard Point, where on clear days a view of five states may be obtained. The route past the state park over state route 23 leads through Jefferson Heights with its charming vista of the mountains and the Hudson River Valley.

At Cairo, another attractive resort the scenic Black Dome Mountain rises 3,900 feet in the distance. Amid highly scenic regions the tour passes through Windham to Prattville where can be seen Devasego Falls, said to be a miniature of the famous Niagara cataract. Westward through Grand Gorge, where Irish Mountain and Bald Mountain rise 3,000 feet on either side, the highway narrows and fights for a foothold as it winds along the banks of a swift rushing river. At the next town of Stamford the tourists will find a delightful center for numerous side trips into attractive surrounding countryside.

Amid picturesque scenery on every hand the journey continues through Davenport to Oneonta, once the site of Indian camping grounds. Here a right turn into state route 7 leads to Cooperstown Junction where a left turn into state route 28 carries the travelers to the quaint village of Cooperstown at the southern end of Otsego Lake. Here is the famous "Glimmerglass" country and a portion of the Cooper homestead, childhood home of the famous author still stands. Northward along the lake shore the highway winds through Springfield Center and intersects with the famous Cherry Valley Drive, now national route 29.

Here a right turn leads over the excellent highway founded on an old Indian trail. Through Cherry Valley, Sharon Springs and Carlisle the road reaches Esperance, where one of the few remaining covered bridges spans the creek. Through Guilderland the travelers reach Albany. Here the Storm King Highway, national route 9W is followed southward to Kingston where the same route on which the tour started may be followed home.

200 MINE WORKERS TO RETURN TO POSTS TODAY

Working Agreement Reached By United Mine Workers and Contracting Co.

NOW BACK TO NORMAL

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Aug. 16.—Approximately 200 mine workers will return to their posts today following the working agreement reached yesterday by the United Mine Workers and the Basely Contracting Company, operators of coal strippings at Locust Gap, Natalie, East and Morea.

Both sides in the nine-hour day dispute that has tied up stripping operations of the Basely concern have indicated they will abide by the decision of Umpire James J. Gorman, an arbitrator, of Hazleton, to whom the controversy has been submitted for mediation.

A controversy arose at the Basely workings recently when union officials took exception to the men working a nine-hour day. The operators held that the work on the strippings was on an eight-hour basis and that the extra hour was classed as overtime. When the union objected, fires were drawn from the steam shovels on the job and four operations were closed down.

With resumption of work at the Basely strippings today every coal operation in this vicinity, with the exception of the Richards Colliery, Sayre and Central Mines, will be back to a normal output basis, marking the first time in many months that so many men have been employed.

MAN, 86, DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Watson Mathews, Employed As Teamster, Is The Victim

WORKED ON HIGHWAY

Accident Occurred On the Old York Road, East of Buckingham, Yesterday

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 16.—Watson Mathews, of Buckingham, 86, employed as a teamster by the State Highway Department, was fatally injured on the Old York Road, east of Buckingham, yesterday afternoon, when he was struck by a sedan used as a taxicab and driven by Harold Burrough, colored, employed by the Court Inn, this borough.

Mathews died in the Emergency Hospital ten minutes after he was admitted. Both legs revealed a compound fracture and he was internally injured.

Coroner John J. Sweeney, M. D., and State Highway Patrolman Kelly, of the Edison sub-station, conducted an investigation. They are of the opinion that Mathews, who was standing alongside of a tar wagon, was crushed between the wagon and the automobile driven by Burrough.

Immediately after the arrival of police on the scene, Burrough was placed under arrest by Patrolman Kelly. He was arraigned before Justice W. Carlisle Hobensack and released under $1,000 bail furnished by the proprietor of the Court Inn.

Burrough, according to police, was proceeding toward Doylestown with the car he was driving. When the machine struck the wagon the horses ran away. Several witnesses have been found who saw the accident and they will be summoned by Coroner Sweeney when the inquest is held.

Mathews' body was removed to the funeral home of A. S. Worthington, Wycombe.

RURAL THIEVERY

Like everything else in the way of money-making, or getting, thievery in all its branches has advanced to a large scale. Instead of the lazy dandy who used to steal a hen or two on a moonlight night, the rural districts are now infested by efficient bands of chicken thieves who make away with every fowl on several farms as one night's work.

The theft of a thousand hens or turkeys, which is said to be fairly common in many sections, sounds hazardous. So many squawking fowls would wake the countryside. But the thieves permit no sound. They release a little gas in the hen-house and after the birds fall from the roost temporarily unconscious they dump them in bags and carry them away in trucks.

Gradually the rural states are becoming as well organized against the chicken thief as they once were against the cattle and horse thief. The time is near at hand when the country will be safe for poultry raising.

Large rewards, severe penalties, relentless pursuit of chicken thieves, state police organizations and registration of poultry dealers and poultry sales are combining to make this form of thievery highly hazardous. The registration of poultry dealers and poultry sales has been tried in some states with considerable success.

Poultry raising has become one of the nation's largest industries, a fact, combined with its staggering losses through thefts, which warrants additional protection from state and local governments.

SERVANTS OF THE PUBLIC

The great army of federal employees rarely gets public attention. It has no bands, no parades. Its members wear no uniforms to distinguish them from other men and women on the street. Yet it is a real army, several hundred thousand strong. Its members are faithful public servants, reasonably hard working and for the most part unaffected by passing scandals.

Conditions in the federal civil service are still short of the ideal. Veteran preference continues to present a difficult problem. The present retirement act should be more generous in the case of some groups of workers, and federal salaries, while they have been increased in recent years, are far from excessive.

No taxpayers resents paying a necessary government employee a fair wage and a just pension upon retirement. When John Smith, taxpayer, kicks, it is because he has reason to believe that his government is over-manned at his expense but for the benefit of the politicians.

Utopia is a highly imaginary place where the warship ratio between Great Powers is 0-0-0.

All a bridegroom has to dig up in Germany to get married is seven cents. All a would-be bride has to dig up is a mark.

Of all the serial stories still running, the hardest by far to keep track of is the changing Chinese political situation.

Disarmament conferees sometimes remind us of the little girl learning to walk, in one of Thomas Hardy's novels, who was constantly confronted by "insuperable barriers a quarter of an inch high."

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant is financing Nita French, an actress, in a musical show, but refuses to put up more money. Jerry Connolly, the manager, accuses Durant of being untrue to Nita, the stage-struck heck room girl, and inducing her father, Dad Malone, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold over her. The box-office is robbed and Jerry and Jimmy are suspected. Nita refuses to finish the performance unless she gets her salary. Kitty goes on in her part. Then Jimmy informs Nita of Jerry's accusations against Durant concerning Kitty, and the actress is furious.

"But we're not parting, Jimmy." Jimmy only shook his head. "After what you told me about you and Durant, I mean about you trying to get me out of a jam when I was blaming me for that robbery after seeing what a sap I'd been, do you think I could stick around here?"

"Of course, why not?" Kitty demanded.

"I can't never make it up to you. If you've done for me, and there I'm trying, and there you'd be catching me try. It would get on our nerves so you'd have a nervous breakdown. Then you couldn't wash dishes or darn socks or even look after the baby."

"Oh, Jimmy, you're so sweet, and such an idiot," Kitty giggled and at her arms about the boy's neck holding him close. "Do you think or a minute that I'll let you go away? I should say not, Jimmy, dear, I love you. Don't you understand? I love you."

"Oh, gosh!" There was a world of relief in Jimmy's voice. He caught the girl to him, holding her closely, and kissed her. They stood clinging to each other, until the sound of approaching footsteps roused them to their senses. Kittyatted her hair, straightening the tress, as Pete shuffled towards them, an enormous bouquet of flowers in his arms.

"A thousand pardons for bustin' on youse dis way," the carpenter began formally, "but on behalf of a stage crew, Kitty, I wanna thank you for savin' de show." He extended the flowers with a dramatic gesture. "If all de boys wasn't married dey'd insist on kissin' you personally, but notwistandin'—"

A low chuckle came from behind the carpenter. The bouquet disappeared from his hands and Jerry, bowing low, tendered the flowers to the new star of the "Welcome Home" Company.

"To Kitty from Jerry," the manager laughed. "Love and kisses."

"Hey, mus," Pete gasped in surprise. "Dem's our posies!"

"Thanks, so much, Pete," Kitty took the flowers, smiling at Jerry, "and you can tell the crew that I insist on kissing each one of them after the show."

"Aw, no, Kitty," Jimmy exclaimed.

"Dat's a promise!" Pete beamed delightedly. "I'll go get 'em beamed up. Dere a doily bunch," he turned and hurried away to spread the good news.

"Kitty, after the show I'll tell you how much I love you for what you did," Jerry announced, "but right now we've got to skip to business. Come on and I'll brush you up in your last act lines. I've found a script."

Jimmy glanced at the manager a little uncertainly as though to ask whether he were wanted. "I'll go along," he began finally.

"I've got a job for you, young man," Jerry told him. "You stay there, near Nita's dressing room and keep your eye on that baby. For the love of Pete don't let her get near Kitty. Come, Miss Vere de Vere Malone." With an exaggerated gesture the manager took the girl's arm and started to lead her away.

"Here, be a darling, and put these in water for me," Kitty thrust the two bouquets into Jimmy's arm and hurried after Jerry.

The boy stood watching the departing figures, happy and sad at the same time. He was glad for Kitty's sake that everything had turned out the way it had, but he was afraid that her success might send her further and further away from him. After all, he was only an usher. A strange sound, like the moan of a dying calf, broke suddenly in upon his meditations. It was Sarah's warning call but he didn't know it. A moment later Nita was standing beside him.

"Holding flowers for the new prima donna, eh," the actress demanded, eyeing the boy with contempt.

"Yep, want to smell 'em?" He held out the bouquets defiantly.

"They'll be nice for her funeral," Nita smiled grimly. "I'm going to wring her nasty little neck!"

"You'll have to wring mine first."

"That's not a bad idea. You put her up to going on for me, I know you did."

"Aw, lay off Kitty and me, can't you?" Jimmy demanded. "We're just a couple of young people tryin' to get along. All we want is a chance to get married, live straight, have a little home—and a family."

There was a sort of pathetic sincerity in the boy's voice. In spite of herself Nita was touched. She had consumed just enough Scotch to drown some of her anger and to bring the sentimental side of her to the fore. Somehow, something about this boy and girl affair touched a responsive chord in her heart.

"Just a little gray home in the west," she smiled. "A little gray home covered with vines and a couple of mortgages." It was the old Nita running true to form. "Rose bushes and guys trying to collect the payments on the radio. Love in a cottage and dirty dishes in the sink."

"Smart crack all you please," Jimmy retorted, not realizing that Nita was actually being sympathetic. "But I'm telling you the truth."

"Am I stopping you if you're chump enough to want to get married?" the actress parried.

"Not exactly," Jimmy answered. "But the show goin' bust will postpone the happy hour."

"Don't blame it on me because you and Jerry can't let the box-office alone."

"Aw, don't be dumb! We haven't anything to do with the box-office, and, besides, that ain't got nothing to do with the show bein' on the rocks."

"No? What has?" Nita questioned sarcastically.

"There's only one real reason why this opera's goin' to the storehouse instead of Broadway," Jimmy told her.

"Which is?"

"Because Willie Durant can't—can't get or make any headway with Kitty."

"What?" Nita jumped. She stared at the boy, her eyes questioning, unbelieving.

"You heard what I said. Why didn't you keep him away from Kitty in the first place?" The truth was out now and Jimmy felt relieved. He had his own ideas about straightening matters, and there was no one around to hush him up.

For a moment Nita was silent. She considered the usher's statement, turning it over slowly in her mind. Various and odd things that had happened and had been said began to assume an unrealized importance. "Are you telling me that Durant has actually been after Kitty?" she asked.

"Didn't he offer her the world with a fence around it if she'd step out with him?" Jimmy replied. "Didn't I seek him in the law a little while ago for making love to her?"

"Aha! So he didn't hurt his face by falling against some scenery—the rat!" The real truth that lay behind certain statements that the actress had just been hearing began to dawn upon her. She tapped her foot slowly on the floor, meditating. "What's the rest of the story? Spill it," she commanded finally.

"Well, didn't Durant get me and Dad to put our money in this show so he could have a strangle hold on Kitty?" Jimmy continued, more than anxious to comply with Nita's request. "Didn't he think that if he got Dad and me all mixed up in this business that Kitty'd do what he wanted to save us? Why Dad's even got the house mortgaged."

"That's enough!" Nita cut the boy short. "You've spilled plenty, baby, plenty! Came the dawn! The more a woman's been around the easier she is to get around."

"But you must know about it all the time. Everybody else in the troupe did."

LIVE where you work

Many people employed in Bristol are commuting to and from their work each day. This means an unnecessary expense and a waste of time. They must leave home earlier and return later than if they lived in the town where they are employed. They have less time for pleasure and less time to spend with their families than if they resided here.

Why commute?

Bristol as a place of residence offers every opportunity to be found in a large city. There are paved streets, sanitary sewers, good schools and churches of every denomination; periodic collection of ashes and garbage, police protection and ample space for outdoor recreation.

Housing is adequate

Housing facilities are adequate to meet the needs of all. There are dwellings here which will meet the needs of almost every family. Big six room houses with all modern conveniences including front porches and rear yards. They rent as low as $25 per month, and are comparable in type to those in the larger cities renting for nearly twice the amount.

You're a part of the community

If you live in Bristol you are a part of the community. You are not lost in the crowds of a great city where often times your next door neighbor doesn't know you. Live in Bristol and participate in its affairs and you will find life much more worth the living.

Ten-Day Air Jamboree Will Draw Best Pilots

Exciting aerobatics, parachute jumps, short distance air derbies, finishes to several cross-country derbies—one of them a women's derby, the first women's air race in the history of the world—have been planned for this exhibition which is believed will eclipse anything of its kind ever staged in the world before.

Los Angeles There

An additional bit of coloring to this "air full of marvels" will be the appearance of the sleek dirigible, Los Angeles, and quite possibly the appearance of its big sister, the Graf Zeppelin, famous trans-ocean air schooner. An invitation has been extended to the Graf's commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, to circle the Cleveland airport here and the city, should the dirigible reach this point on its round-the-world voyage in time for the races and exposition.

And while all of this action is crowding Cleveland's skies, a complete panorama of aviation progress will be depicted on the immense exhibition floor that has been specially built for the exposition proper. Here, from beginning to the present, and complete to the minutest detail, will be set forth an amazing picture of aviation from its birth.

Each day at the air races has been dedicated to various organizations. Saturday, August 24, the opening day of the glamorous spectacle, has been set aside for the formal grand opening of the Aeronautical exposition in the Public Auditorium here. It will be preceded by a giant floral parade through the principal Cleveland thoroughfares.

The Program

The special days for the ten-day aerial jamboree are:

Sunday, August 25.—All Ohio Day.
Monday, August 26.—Exchange Club Day—women's air derby, Santa Monica, Cal.-Cleveland, ends; All Ohio Derby ends; Oakland-to-Cleveland derby ends.

Tuesday, August 27.—Army Day; Kiwanis Club Day; National Glider Association Day; Early Bird Day. Miami-Miami Beach-to-Cleveland derby ends; Portland-to-Cleveland derby ends.

Wednesday, August 28.—Navy Day; American Legion Day; Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce Day. Philadelphia-to-Cleveland derby ends.

Thursday, August 29.—International Rotary Day; Canada Day; Cleveland Advertising Club Day; Quiet Birdmen Day; Canadian Air Derby ends.

Friday, August 30.—Grotto Day, National Aeronautic Association Day.

Saturday, August 31.—Edison Day; Engineers Day.

Sunday, September 1.—All Nations Day.
Monday, September 2.—Akron Day.

Stomach and Kidney Ills Yield To Master Medicine — In Misery for 18 Months

MRS. JAMES HIXEN

"For eighteen months I had been the helpless victim of stomach and kidney troubles that refused to yield to any medicines or treatments," said Mrs. James Hixen, Dunbar, Penn. "Each meal was followed by gas bloating and belching spells. Then my kidneys brought on severe pains across my back and during the night forced me to rise four or five times."

"A two weeks' treatment made me feel like a different person. My stomach was first to respond and soon my digestion was restored and my appetite improved. Then my kidneys grew stronger so that the night rising ceased and the back pains disappeared. Today there isn't a trace of either ailment and I owe all my new and glorious health to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Bristol, Pa., at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. — (Adv.)

Sweet clover is being used more each year as a green manure crop to be plowed under for potatoes. Although there are examples of short rotations being used successfully for a long time, he believes the longer rotation is safer from the standpoint of controlling disease and insects.

C. K. Hallowell, the Philadelphia county agent, also gave a short talk in which he said the growers are fairly uniform on the production of potatoes, but that they are not uniform in marketing them. The growers must get together and study the marketing problems and change their marketing systems and their standards of grading to meet the requirements of the consumer.

THERE IS NO OTHER ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR

THE only all-steel refrigerators in the world... these rugged General Electrics. Built of sheets of steel—as strong and long-lived as a safe. They cannot warp because steel cannot warp. Their doors will never sag. Their latch and hinges will never loosen—they are bolted right into the steel.

Because their doors always fit so tightly and because of specially effective insulation, these refrigerators actually maintain perfect temperature (always safely below the 50 degree danger point) on the least possible current. Heat cannot leak in and cold cannot seep out... and that is the secret of economical refrigeration.

Just as an all-steel cabinet is superior to other types, so is the hermetically sealed mechanism of the General Electric in a class of its own. It is dust-proof and worry-free. Operation is extremely quiet. It never needs oiling. It has an accessible temperature control. As evidence of guaranteed reliability—there are now more than 300,000 users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs! Come and see the models, any of which can be purchased on conveniently spaced payments.

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

Home Modernization Makes Old Houses Up-to-Date

OBsolete HOUSES ARE NO LONGER NECESSARY EVERY HOME MAY BE MODERNIZED

Practically every woman would refuse emphatically to dress in the garments that were stylish ten years ago. And the average man would look with scorn at the thought of owning an automobile that was built back in 1918.

Yet both complacently live in a house that has the architectural design of Spanish-American war days and think nothing of it. Both put up with the inconveniences that go with such a dwelling and are satisfied with the old home.

Homes Grow Out of Date Also

Only recently has the home-owner begun to realize that it is no longer necessary to live in odd appearing houses simply because that was the way they were originally built. During the past year or so it has been brought to the attention of the property owner that houses clothed in out-of-date lines show as poor taste as dressing in clothes with the lines of yesterday. Both may have utility—but how unnecessary the old lines are!

Radical changes in the appearance of the exterior of the residence are possible. The old houses are not cast in an inflexible mould that forbids alteration, but to the contrary, are plastic in the hands of the experienced builder and can emerge from his efforts dressed in the lines of today.

Exterior Views Show Changes Possible

On this page we show a smart-looking cottage that was once a lowly, weather-beaten frame house. Illustrations of this sort are striking and focus attention on the fact that modernization accomplishes wonders in design. The before and after views point out more effectively than a thousand words the marked changes in appearance that come with modernization.

Costs Not Excessive

The home owner who lives in an out-of-date house often hesitates to improve his dwelling because he has a mistaken idea of the costs of modernizing. These costs are usually moderate. A surprising range of improvements can be made for a few thousand dollars.

A survey of modernization reveals that the average cost is in the neighborhood of two thousand dollars. These figures have been compiled from a survey made covering many thousands of homes.

The relative small cost of clothing the house in a new dress and modern-

Money Usually Easy to Secure

The financial question sometimes proves to be a stumbling block to progress. The home owner has the idea of modernizing, but wonders where the money is coming from. Building and loan associations, banking institutions and private individuals are willing to loan their money on first mortgages, especially when the money is to be devoted to modernizing a home or apartment. The home owner need not make his desires known to meet with a courteous hearing. The financial institution knows that modernization adds to the value of the house. Their money is being placed in a residence, the value of which is immediately increased. The risks are small.

Some banking institutions provide a plan by which the loan may be paid off on a monthly basis. Spread over a term of years the monthly cost is small. When these monthly costs are balanced against the ensuing comforts and the pride that comes with owning a house that is new and fresh, the balance is decidedly in favor of making the loan. It becomes the right thing to do.

When the old fashioned lines are torn away and the home is clothed again in the artistic architectural dress of today, a new sense of values becomes known to the home owner. The spirit of the family freshens and takes on a new growth. A keener appreciation of life results.

CHOOSE ELECTRICAL FIXTURES TO MATCH DECORATIVE DESIGN

Before electrical fixtures, especially the hanging cluster of lights, is selected, the decorative scheme of the room should be decided. The electrical fixtures should be suitable to the general scheme of decoration and the type of furniture to be used with them.

Striking Changes in Interior

The inside of this cottage has also been modernized and made strictly up-to-date.

See What Modernizing Did Here!

You can get the same remarkable improvements in your house if you give your imagination a chance. The trim little cottage above was once the old, worn-out house below.

Staircase Permits Decorative Appeal

Too many staircases appear to have been designed merely as a means of ascending to the upper story. The staircase may be (and should be) one of the features of the house.

The location of the stairs is important for many of the effects in modernizing depend on the amount of space available. Since space in the center of the house is often valuable, some staircases are cramped and defy artistic treatment. If extensive alterations are possible the staircase may be changed to permit a decorative appeal.

Give Straight Flights a Colonial Tone

In the older houses many of the staircases were a simple flight of steps. A long narrow hall with a straight flight may be treated in a colonial style with white woodwork and a mahogany handrail of slender balusters.

A curved staircase makes a graceful appearance but must be designed and proportioned correctly to be effective.

A third type of staircase often used is the "platform" staircase where a short flight reaches a landing or platform from which a second flight leads to the floor above. The landing should be placed about half way between the two floors and should be spacious enough to suggest repose. Often the staircase can be arranged so that a window looks off the landing. A window seat, a period chair or a grandfather's clock sometimes is placed on the landing to give it a decorative appeal.

The staircase should be constructed with wide treads and low risers so that the exertion of climbing is apparently lessened.

CLASSY COTTAGE GROWS FROM A WORN-OUT HOUSE

Trim Little Home Results From Modernizing Old Cottage

Out on the edge of town you will find many small houses like the one pictured at the bottom. Built back in the days of Free Silver they stood still while the rest of the world passed by.

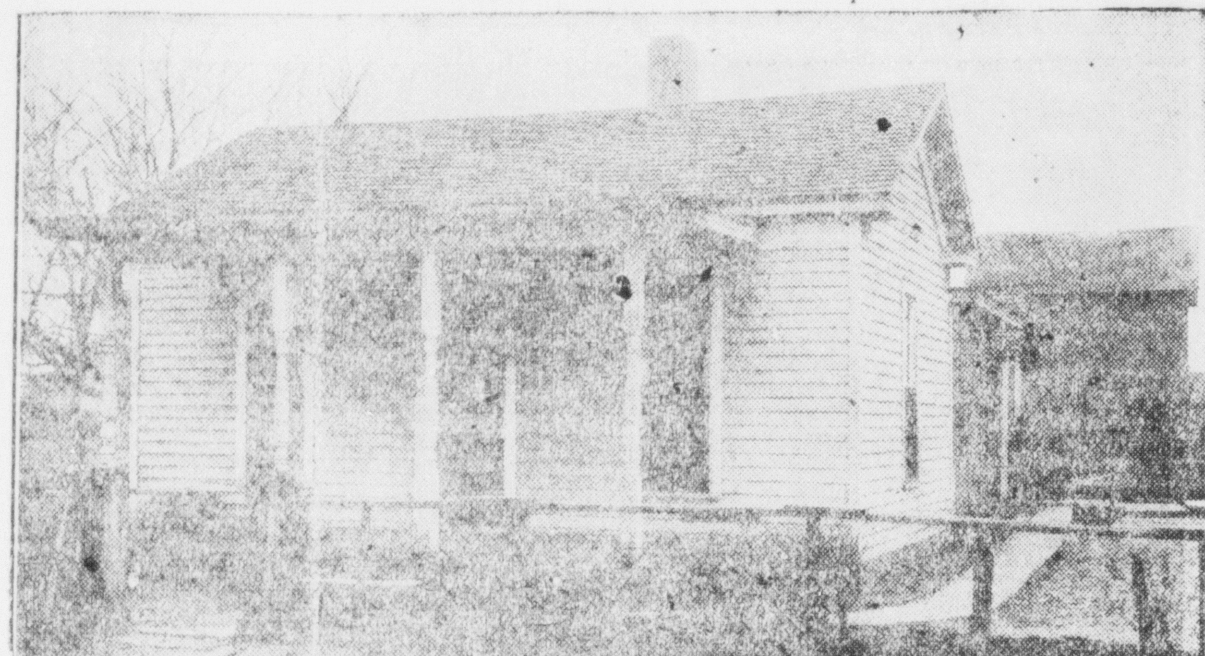

These are the homes of many families who yearn for better appearing dwellings but who do not realize that their hopeless looking houses are truly dull caterpillars that can be awakened into glorious butterflies.

Sturdy Frames Reclotted

A touch of the magic wand of modernization and a new home leaps into being—a new home based on the sturdy frame was clothed by the artist looking house of former days.

When the owners of these old houses realize how simple the transformation really is, they will wonder why they did not catch the spirit of modernization years ago.

The illustration of the house above the owner called for advice should a particularly forlorn looking affair. It is a shoe box with windows, roof and a non-descript set of additions trailing along behind. The patched fence adds immeasurably in building up an atmosphere of decay and blasted hopes.

In the older sections of town you'll find many cottages like this. With sturdy timbers they await the touch of modernization to make them into homes of beauty and comfort.

FEDERALS AND ST. ANN'S
BATTLE TO THE GAME

By T. M. Juno

The league leading Federals and St. Ann's battled to a five-all tie on St. Ann's field last evening.

St. Ann's held the lead from the start and going into the fifth had a 5-4 lead, but fast running by Barrett deadlocked the score.

Brooks started for Mulholland's crew and failed to last the first frame. He pitched to five batters and four reached base. Kohler relieved him and after the second held the "Saints" scoreless.

Tullio did not receive the proper support he deserved. The Dorrance street club hurler allowed but five, three of these scratch infield hits. The fourth was missed after a hard try by an outfielder.

Roe and Barrett were the batting stars of the evening. Roe has not been retired yet. A single, double and triple came out of his bat. His triple was one of the longest hits made on St. Ann's field and would have been a homer if Cochran did not play so deep. Barrett had two singles and was hit by a pitched ball.

The "Saints" started in fine fashion, running Brooks and Kohler for four runs. Fields was hit with a pitched ball and stole second. Cooper hit to Dugan, who threw to third and hit the base-runner, both men being safe. Cooper stole second. Wilkinson fled out. Roe doubled to left, scoring Fields and Cooper. Tullio walked and so did Brooks. Kohler taking his place. Paletta and Oriola also were passed, forcing in Roe. Stallone hit to Riola, who was late in throwing to the plate, Tullio scoring. Gilardi forced Paletta at home. Fields, up for the second time, skied to Riola.

The "Saints" scoring ended in the second. Cooper singled and stole second. Wilkinson hit to Dugan and Cooper was run down. Wilkinson went to second on a passed ball. Tullio and Paletta could not produce.

The league leaders scored one in their turn. With two already jarred, Fine hit a single, stole second and scored on White's bingle.

Three more came as the result of Paletta's miss in the third. Cochran reached first when Oriola failed to hold Roe's peg to first. Barrett was hit with a pitched ball. Dietrich hit to Tullio, who threw to third but all hands were safe because the throw was late. Wilkinson made a beautiful catch of Riola's short lift and would have had a double play, but Paletta dropped his peg. Cochran scoring. Dugan hit both runners in with a clean single.

Mulholland's proteges evened it up in their final stand. Barrett beat out a hit to short. Barrett caught Paletta asleep and went to second. Dietrich sacrificed the runner to third where he scored on a passed ball.

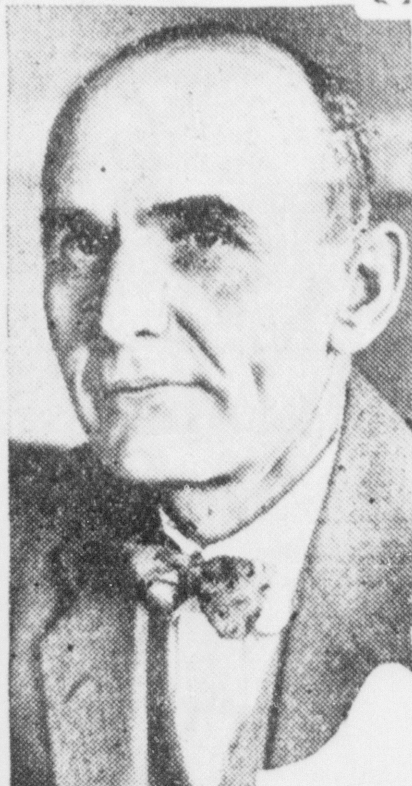

Tonight, Emilie versus A. O. H.
